What is Internal Medicine/Pediatrics?

With a focus on lifelong preventive health care and overall well-being, our internal medicine and pediatric physicians and staff specialize in primary care for infants, children and adults. Internal Medicine/Pediatrics, sometimes called Med-Peds, is the combination of Internal Medicine (primary care for adults) and Pediatrics (primary care for infants, children and adolescents). Physicians receive an additional year of training and are board-certified in both internal medicine and pediatrics.
Pediatric Behavioral Health Care

The IHA Pediatric Behavioral Health Care team empowers children and their families to cope with behavioral issues and challenges so they can work toward healthy family growth.

Behaviors addressed include:
- Depression or anxiety
- Behavior concerns disruptive to school or home life
- Sleep issues
- Coping with stressful events such as illness, death in the family, starting or changing schools
- Problems with friends or bullying
- Divorce or remarriage
- Post-traumatic experiences

Working together:
- We work in collaboration with your child’s physician to improve your child’s or adolescent’s overall health
- We help the family to more fully understand the nature of a child or adolescent’s behavior and provide the tools to help them successfully navigate whatever challenges they are facing
- We will assess the most effective strategies for helping your child or adolescent and provide an opportunity for parents to clarify their own feelings
- We provide education and strategies to parents to empower families

Pediatric Cardiology

Pediatric Cardiology is different from the way cardiologists treat adult patients. The structure of children’s hearts is different and smaller than adults’ heart structure. Pediatric cardiologists have special training and experience treating conditions that affect the structure or rhythm of children’s hearts. Pediatric cardiologists work closely with your child’s pediatrician. They don’t do surgery.

What is neurosurgery?

The goal of neurosurgery is to improve the care of back and neck pain with a multidisciplinary approach that emphasizes the best possible treatment options. This includes collaborating with physical medicine physicians to exhaust non-surgical treatment options like spinal injections and spine therapy in advance of spine surgery. If spine surgery is necessary, the spine surgeons at Trinity Health IHA Medical Group, Brain & Spine Surgery use advanced robotic spine surgery capabilities and surgical navigation technology for the most advanced spine surgery in the State of Michigan.
